GENERAL PART

CHAPTER I: GENERAL PROVISIONS

Principle of Legality Article 1

- (1) Criminal offences, criminal sanctions and measures of mandatory treatment are defined only by law.
- (2) No criminal sanction or measure of mandatory treatment may be imposed on a person for an act, if prior to the commission of the act, the law did not define the act as a criminal offence and did not provide a criminal sanction or measure of mandatory treatment for the act.
- (3) The definition of a criminal offence shall be strictly construed and interpretation by analogy shall not be permitted. In case of ambiguity, the definition of a criminal offence shall be interpreted in favour of the person being investigated, prosecuted or convicted.

Application of the Most Favourable Law Article 2

- (1) The law in effect at the time a criminal offence was committed shall be applied to the perpetrator.
- (2) In the event of a change in the law applicable to a given case prior to a final decision, the law more favourable to the perpetrator shall apply.
- (3) When a new law no longer criminalizes an act but a perpetrator has been convicted by the final judgment in accordance with the prior law, the enforcement of the criminal sanction shall not commence or, if it has commenced, shall cease.
- (4) A law, which was expressly in force only for a determined time, shall be applicable to criminal offences committed while it was in force, even if it is no longer in force. This shall not apply if the law itself expressly provides otherwise.

Criminal Sanctions and Measures of Mandatory Treatment Article 3

- (1) The criminal sanctions are:
 - 1) Principal punishments;
 - 2) Alternative punishments;
 - 3) Accessory punishments; and

- 4) Judicial admonition.
- (2) The measures of mandatory treatments are:
- 1) Mandatory psychiatric treatment of mentally incompetent perpetrators;
 - 2) Mandatory psychiatric treatment of perpetrators with diminished mental capacity; and
 - 3) Mandatory rehabilitation treatment of perpetrators addicted to drugs or alcohol.

Limitations on the Execution of Criminal Sanctions and Measures of Mandatory Treatment
Article 4

In the execution of a criminal sanction or a measure of mandatory treatment, certain rights of the perpetrator may be denied or restricted only to the extent that is commensurate with the nature or the content of the sanction or measure and only in a manner that provides for the respect of the human dignity of the individual, and is in compliance with international law.

Application of the General Part of the Present Code
Article 5

The provisions of the General Part of the present Code apply to all criminal offences defined in the laws applicable in Kosovo.

CHAPTER II: CRIMINAL OFFENCE AND CRIMINAL LIABILITY

Criminal Offence
Article 6

A criminal offence is an unlawful act which is defined by law as a criminal offence, the characteristics of which are defined by law and for which a criminal sanction or a measure of mandatory treatment is prescribed by the law.

Act of Minor Significance
Article 7

An act shall not constitute a criminal offence even though it has the characteristics of a criminal offence as defined by law if it is an act of minor significance. The act shall be deemed to be of minor significance when the danger thereby involved is insignificant due to the nature or gravity of the act, the absence or insignificance of harmful consequences, the circumstances in which the act was committed, the low degree of criminal liability of the perpetrator or the personal circumstances of the perpetrator.

Necessary Defence
Article 8

- (1) An act committed in necessary defence is not a criminal offence.
- (2) An act is committed in necessary defence when a person commits the act to avert an unlawful, real and imminent attack from himself, herself or another person and the nature of the act is proportionate to the degree of danger posed by the attack.
- (3) An act which is disproportionate to the degree of danger posed by an attack exceeds the limits of the necessary defence.
- (4) When the perpetrator exceeds the limits of necessary defence, the punishment may be reduced. When the perpetrator exceeds the limits by reason of strong trauma or fear caused by the attack, the punishment may be waived.

Extreme Necessity
Article 9

- (1) An act committed in extreme necessity shall not be considered to be a criminal offence.
- (2) An act is committed in extreme necessity when a person commits the act to avert from himself, herself or another person an imminent and unprovoked danger which could not have been averted otherwise, provided that the harm created thereby does not exceed the harm threatened.
- (3) When the perpetrator causes the danger through negligence or exceeds the limits of extreme necessity the punishment may be reduced, and when the perpetrator exceeds the limits in exceptionally mitigating circumstances, the punishment may also be waived.
- (4) There is no extreme necessity if the perpetrator was obliged to expose himself or herself to the danger.

Superior Order
Article 10

- (1) When a criminal offence has been committed by a person pursuant to an order of a government or of a superior, whether military or civilian, the perpetrator shall not be relieved of his or her criminal liability unless:
 - 1) The person was under a legal obligation to obey orders of the government or of the superior in question;
 - 2) The person did not know that the order was unlawful; and
 - 3) The order was not manifestly unlawful.

- (2) Orders to commit genocide or other crimes against humanity are manifestly unlawful.

Criminal Liability
Article 11

- (2) A person is not criminally liable if, at the time of the commission of a criminal offence, he or she is under the age of fourteen years.
- (3) A person is criminally liable for the negligent commission of a criminal offence only when this has been explicitly provided for by law.

Mental Incompetence and Diminished Mental Capacity
Article 12

- (1) A person who committed a criminal offence is considered mentally incompetent if, at the time of the commission of a criminal offence, he or she suffered from a permanent or temporary mental illness, mental disorder or disturbance in mental development that affected his or her mental functioning so that such person was not able to understand or control his or her actions or omissions or to understand that he or she was committing a criminal offence.
- (2) A person who committed a criminal offence is considered to have diminished mental capacity if, at the time of the commission of a criminal offence, his or her ability to understand or control his or her actions or omissions was substantially diminished because of the conditions referred to in paragraph 1 of the present article. Such person is criminally liable but the court shall take into consideration these conditions when deciding on the duration and the type of sanction or measure of mandatory treatment it imposes.

Committing Criminal Offences in a State of Intoxication
Article 13

A perpetrator is criminally liable if he or she, by use of alcohol, narcotics, or by another method, renders himself or herself in such a state that the perpetrator cannot understand the significance of his or her own actions or omissions or control his or her own behaviour, if prior to bringing himself or herself to such a state, such actions or omissions were intended or if he or she is negligent in relation to the criminal offence and the law provides for criminal liability for the negligent commission of this offence.

Causal Link
Article 14

A person is not criminally liable if there is no causal connection between the action or omission and the consequences or there is no possibility of the realization of the consequences.

Intent
Article 15

- (1) A criminal offence may be committed with direct or eventual intent.
- (2) A person acts with direct intent when he or she is aware of his or her act and desires its commission.

Negligence
Article 16

- (1) A criminal offence may be committed by conscious or unconscious negligence.
- (2) A person acts with conscious negligence when he or she is aware that a prohibited consequence can occur as a result of his or her act or omission but recklessly thinks that it will not occur or that he or she will be able to prevent it from occurring.
- (3) A person acts with unconscious negligence when he or she is unaware that a prohibited consequence can occur as a result of his or her act or omission, although under the circumstances and according to his or her personal characteristics he or she ought and could have been aware of such a possibility.

Liability for Graver Consequences
Article 17

When the commission of a criminal offence causes consequences which exceed the intent of the perpetrator and the law has provided for a more severe punishment, the more severe punishment may be imposed if the consequence is attributable to the perpetrator's negligence.

Mistake of Fact
Article 18

- (1) A person is not criminally liable if, at the time of committing a criminal offence, he or she is unaware of a characteristic of that act or he or she mistakenly believed that circumstances existed which, had they in fact existed, would have rendered the act permissible.

(2) If a person's mistake is due to negligence, he or she is criminally liable for a criminal offence which has been negligently committed if the law provides for criminal liability for the negligent commission of this offence.

Mistake of Law Article 19

(1) A perpetrator who for justifiable reasons did not know or could not have known that an act was prohibited is not criminally liable.

(2) If the mistake was avoidable, the perpetrator is criminally liable but can be punished more leniently.

(3) A mistake of law is avoidable if everyone, and thus also the perpetrator, could have easily known that the act was unlawful or if the perpetrator by reason of his or her profession, occupation or service was obliged to know the appropriate provision.

Inappropriate Attempt Article 21

The court may waive the punishment of a person who attempts to commit a criminal offence with inappropriate means or against an inappropriate object.

Voluntary Abandonment Article 22

(1) The court may waive the punishment of a person for a punishable attempt of a criminal offence if such person voluntarily abandons the commission of a criminal offence which he or she has commenced, even though he or she is aware that according to all the circumstances he or she could continue the act or if, after the completion of such an act, he or she prevents the occurrence of the consequences.

(2) In the case described under paragraph 1 of the present Article, the perpetrator shall be punished for those acts which constitute another separate criminal offence.

Collaboration in Criminal Offences

Co-Perpetration Article 23

Purpose of Suspended Sentences

Article 42

The purpose of a suspended sentence is to give the perpetrator a reprimand which achieves the purpose of a punishment by pronouncing a sentence without executing it.

Suspended Sentence

Article 43

- (1) The court may impose a suspended sentence on the perpetrator under the conditions provided for by the present Code.
- (2) In imposing a suspended sentence, the court pronounces a punishment on the convicted person and at the same time orders that this punishment shall not be executed if the convicted person does not commit another criminal offence for the period of time determined by the court (verification period) which cannot be less than one year or more than five years.
- (3) Within a suspended sentence the court may order that the punishment be executed if, within a determined time, the convicted person does not return the material benefit acquired from the commission of the criminal offence, does not compensate the damage caused by the criminal offence or does not perform another obligation provided for by provisions in the criminal law. The court shall determine a deadline for the performance of these obligations within the verification period.

Conditions for Imposing Suspended Sentences

Article 44

- (1) A suspended sentence may be imposed on a perpetrator of a criminal offence punishable by imprisonment of up to five years and on a perpetrator of a criminal offence punishable by imprisonment of up to ten years, if the provisions of mitigation of the punishment are applied.
- (2) A suspended sentence may be imposed on a perpetrator as foreseen in paragraph 1 of the present article when the court pronounces a punishment of a fine or of imprisonment of up to two years, either for a single offence or concurrent offences.
- (3) When determining whether to impose a suspended sentence, the court shall consider, in particular, the purpose of a suspended sentence, the past conduct of the perpetrator, his or her behaviour after the commission of the criminal offence, the degree of criminal liability and other circumstances under which the criminal offence was committed.

(4) When the court pronounces a punishment of imprisonment and of a fine, the court may impose a suspended sentence for both punishments or for only the punishment of imprisonment.

Revocation of Suspended Sentences
Due to Newly- Committed Criminal Offences
Article 45

(1) The court shall revoke a suspended sentence if, during the verification period, the convicted person commits one or more criminal offences for which a punishment of imprisonment of at least two years has been imposed.

(2) The court may revoke a suspended sentence if, during the verification period, the convicted person commits one or more criminal offences for which a punishment of imprisonment of less than two years or a punishment of a fine has been imposed, after considering all circumstances related to the committed criminal offences and to the convicted person, and especially the similarity of the committed criminal offences, their importance and the motives for committing the criminal offences.

(3) When revoking a suspended sentence, the court shall impose a single punishment for the criminal offence committed previously and the new criminal offence, in accordance with Article 71 of the present Code and treat the revoked suspended sentence as determined.

(4) If the court does not revoke a suspended sentence, it may impose a suspended sentence or a punishment of imprisonment or a punishment of a fine for the newly-committed criminal offence. If the court imposes a suspended sentence for the newly-committed criminal offence, the court shall apply the provisions of Article 71 of the present Code to impose a compound suspended sentence for both the previously committed and the newly committed criminal offence and it shall also determine a compound verification period which can be no less than one year and no more than five years, commencing on the day the sentence became effective. If the court imposes a punishment of imprisonment for the newly committed criminal offence, the period of time spent serving such term of imprisonment shall not be deducted from the verification period established by the suspended sentence for the previously committed act.

Revocation of Suspended Sentences
Due to Previously-Committed Criminal Offences
Article 46

The court shall revoke the suspended sentence if, after imposing the suspended sentence, there is a final judgment establishing that the convicted person committed another criminal offence prior to the imposition of the suspended sentence and if the court determines that the suspended sentence would have not been imposed if that criminal offence had been known. In such a case, the provisions of Article 45(3) of the present Code shall apply.

Revocation of Suspended Sentences Due to Failure to Perform Obligations

Article 47

If a suspended sentence is conditioned on the performance of one of the obligations provided for in Article 43(3) of the present Code and the convicted person fails to perform that obligation within the time determined by the court, the court may, within the verification period, extend the term for the performance of the obligation or it may revoke the suspended sentence and execute the punishment provided for in the suspended sentence. If the court determines that the convicted person was unable to perform the obligation for justified reasons, the court shall waive the performance of that obligation or replace it with another adequate obligation provided for by law.

Deadlines for Revocation of Suspended Sentences

Article 48

- (1) A suspended sentence may be revoked during the verification period. If a convicted person commits a criminal offence entailing revocation of the suspended sentence during this period but it is established by judgment only after the expiry of the verification period, the suspended sentence may be revoked no later than one year after the expiry of the verification period.
- (2) If a convicted person fails to perform an obligation provided for in Article 43(3) of the present Code within the time determined by the court, the court may revoke the suspended sentence no later than one year after the expiry of the verification period and order the execution of the punishment imposed in the suspended sentence.

Suspended Sentence With Order for Mandatory Rehabilitation Treatment

Article 49

- (1) The court may impose a suspended sentence with an order for mandatory rehabilitation treatment, where the convicted person is a first time offender and a drug addict or alcoholic, if the court determines that the primary factor motivating the criminal offence was related to his or her drug or alcohol addiction and that successful treatment would minimise the risk of the commission of another criminal offence, after considering the report of the probation service.
- (2) The probation service shall supervise the rehabilitation treatment program.
- (3) The punishment will be deemed as served upon successful completion of the rehabilitation treatment program.
- (4) If the convicted person withdraws from the rehabilitation treatment program or does not perform obligations related to the order for treatment, the court may replace the previous obligation with a different one, extend the duration of the order for treatment or revoke the suspended sentence and order the execution of the punishment provided for in the suspended sentence.

Suspended Sentence With Order for Supervision by the Probation Service
Article 50

- (1) The court may impose a suspended sentence with an order for supervision by the probation service if the court determines that the integration of the convicted person into society will be better achieved through supervision by the probation service, after considering the report of the probation service.
- (2) When imposing a suspended sentence with an order for supervision by the probation service, the court shall order the convicted person to maintain contact with the probation service. The court may also order the convicted person to perform one or more of the obligations provided for in Article 43(3) or Article 51 of the present Code. The duration of an obligation provided for in Article 51 shall not be less than six months or more than three years.
- (3) In choosing among the obligations provided for in Article 51 of the present Code, the court shall consider, in particular, the age of the convicted person, his or her general health and mental condition, lifestyle and needs, especially those related to family, school and work, the motives for committing the criminal offence, his or her behaviour after its commission, his or her past conduct, personal and family-related and other circumstances which are important for the selection of the kind of supervision and its duration.
- (4) If the convicted person fails to maintain contact with the probation service or to perform an obligation provided for in Article 51 of the present Code, as ordered by the court, the court may replace the previous obligation with a different one, extend the duration of the supervision within the verification period, or revoke the suspended sentence.

Community service work may only be ordered upon the consent of the convicted person.

(2) When imposing a suspended sentence with an order for community service work, the court shall order the convicted person to perform unpaid community service work for a specified term of 30 to 240 working hours. The probation service will determine the type of community service to be performed by the convicted person, designate the specific organization for which the convicted person will perform the community service, decide on the days of the week when the community service work will be performed and supervise the performance of the community service work.

(3) The community service work shall be performed within a period of time determined by the court which shall not exceed one year.

The punishment shall be proportionate to the gravity of the offence and the conduct and circumstances of the offender.

(2) When determining the punishment for a recidivist, the court shall especially take into consideration whether he or she has previously committed a criminal offence of the same type as the new criminal offence, whether the two acts are committed for the same motives, and the period of time that has elapsed since the previous conviction was pronounced or since the punishment was served or waived.

(3) When determining the punishment of a fine, the court shall consider the material situation of the perpetrator, and, in particular, the amount of his or her personal income, other income, assets and obligations. The court shall not set the level of a fine above the means of the perpetrator.

General Rules on Mitigation or Aggravation of Punishments Article 65

(1) The punishment imposed on a perpetrator is the punishment prescribed for the criminal offence, while a more lenient or severe punishment may be imposed only in accordance with the conditions provided for by the present Code.

(2) The punishment imposed for attempt, assistance and criminal association shall be no more than three-quarters of the maximum punishment prescribed for the criminal offence. In the cases where the punishment of a fine has been imposed, the same will apply to the maximum fine provided for by law.

2) When the court finds that there are particularly mitigating circumstances which indicate that the purpose of punishment can be achieved by imposing a lesser punishment.

Limits on Mitigation of Punishments Article 67

(1) When the conditions provided for in Article 66 of the present Code exist, the court shall mitigate the punishment within the following limits:

1) If long-term imprisonment is provided as the punishment for a criminal offence, the punishment can be mitigated to imprisonment of ten years;

2) If a period of at least three years is provided as the minimum term of imprisonment for a criminal offence, the punishment can be mitigated to imprisonment of one year;

3) If a period of two years is provided as the minimum term of imprisonment for a criminal offence, the punishment can be mitigated to imprisonment of six months;

- 2) If less than five years have elapsed between the date of release or termination of the previous punishment and the commission of the new criminal offence.

(2) The court may impose a more severe punishment by adding no more than up to one half of the maximum punishment to the maximum punishment.

(3) When determining whether to impose a more severe punishment, the court shall consider, in particular, the entering of a guilty plea, the similarity between the criminal offences committed, the motives for which they were committed, the circumstances in which they were committed and also the need to impose such a punishment to fulfil the purpose of the punishment.

(4) The present article shall not apply to the punishment of long-term imprisonment.

Punishment of Concurrent Criminal Offences

(2) The court shall impose an aggregate punishment in accordance with these rules:

- 1) If the court has pronounced a punishment of long-term imprisonment for one of the criminal offences, it shall impose this punishment only;

2) If the court has pronounced a punishment of imprisonment for each criminal offence, the aggregate punishment must be higher than each individual punishment but the aggregate punishment may not be as high as the sum of all prescribed punishments nor may it exceed a period of twenty years;

3) If the court has pronounced a punishment of imprisonment of up to three years for each criminal offence, the aggregate punishment of imprisonment may not exceed eight years;

5) If the court has pronounced a punishment of imprisonment for some criminal offences, while for others it has pronounced a punishment of a fine, the court will impose an aggregate punishment of imprisonment and of a fine, in accordance with sub-paragraphs 2 through 4 of paragraph 2 of the present article.

(3) The court shall impose an accessory punishment if it has been pronounced for at least one of the criminal offences, or if the court has pronounced punishments of a fine for many criminal offences, it will impose an aggregate punishment of a fine in accordance with subparagraph 4 of paragraph 2 of the present article.

The punishment or part of the punishment which the convicted person has already served shall be included in the aggregate punishment.

(2) For a criminal offence committed while serving a punishment of imprisonment or of long-term imprisonment, the court shall determine the punishment of the perpetrator independently of the previously imposed punishment if the application of the provisions of Article 71 of the present Code would lead to failure to achieve the aims of punishment considering the duration of the unserved portion of the previously imposed punishment.

- (4) The court may impose a judicial admonition for more than one criminal offence committed concurrently, when each of the criminal offences meet the conditions provided for in paragraph 2 or 3 of the present article.
- (5) When determining whether to impose a judicial admonition, the court shall consider, in particular, the purpose of a judicial admonition, the perpetrator's past conduct, his or her behaviour after the commission of the criminal offence, the degree of criminal liability, other circumstances in which the act has been committed and the voluntary participation of the perpetrator in a treatment program.

The time spent in the health care institution shall be calculated towards the serving of the punishment.

(2) If the measure referred to in paragraph 1 of the present article is imposed in addition to the punishment of a fine, a judicial admonition, or a waiver of punishment, the court may decide, upon the consent of the convicted person, that such measure be executed in liberty. If the perpetrator fails to undergo the treatment in liberty without a justifiable cause or if he or she arbitrarily quits the treatment, the court may order that the treatment be executed in a health care institution.

(3) If the measure referred to in paragraph 1 of the present article is imposed in addition to the punishment of imprisonment, it may last until the punishment is served. If the measure referred to in paragraph 1 of the present article is imposed in addition to the punishment of a fine, a judicial admonition, or a waiver of punishment, the treatment may not last for more than two years.
